

DIGITAL ARCHITECTURE LONDON

To celebrate London as a centre of design and innovation, the 'Digital Architecture London' Conference will take place at the Building Centre on 21st September 2009. Presenting a selection of London's leading architects, artists, designers and engineers, the conference will examine how London is shaping the digital future of the built environment.

Introducing the latest developments in digital design practice, the conference will explore new spaces, social interactions, design and fabrication processes, and speculate on architecture's post-digital futures.
